TOGETHER IN SCRIPTURE

Genesis 10:1–11:9

Context: Setting the Table

After a creational prologue (1:1–2:3), the “history of the heavens and the earth” (2:4–4:26) relates God’s provision for his image bearers and their subsequent rebellion. The second section, the “book of the generations of Adam,” (5:1–6:8) sets forth the line of Seth. The third section, “the family history of Noah” (6:9–9:29), tells of the great flood and God’s covenant with Noah. This fourth section, “the generations of the sons of Noah (10:1–11:9), begins with the “table of nations” and continues with the story of the Tower of Babel, setting the stage for the call of Abram.

Content: Hearing the Text

Read Genesis 10:1–11:9 together out loud.

Credo: Believing the Truth

As the sad ending of Noah’s life showed, the flood that had given mankind a new start had yet not given new hearts to God’s image bearers. God’s story of redemption was only just beginning. Before God could redeem a people to himself out of every kindred and tongue and people and nation, there had to be kindreds and tongues and peoples and nations. Before Abram’s Seed could be a blessing to the nations, there had to be nations to be blessed. Yet while the scattering of the nations preserved humanity from self-destruction until the coming of the promised day of redemption, this division would only be temporary. There would come a day when the Spirit would be poured out, enabling the long-divided nations to worship God with one voice as one people—just like God intended from the very beginning.

Conduct: Reshaping Our Walk

In what ways might we be tempted to forget that all nations, including our own, are ultimately part of the old-creational division of the nations that is altogether set aside for all who are “in Christ”?

Examples: Assuming that God is on “our side” in disputes with other nations; Believing the lie that we need political power to accomplish God’s new-creational purposes.

In what ways are we, like the rebellious tower-builders, tempted to find our sense of security in the “name” we think we can make for ourselves?

Examples: Building our sense of status on our career ambitions and financial success.

Book of the Month

Early in the sixteenth century, legislative decree in England controlled people's access to Scripture and prohibited an English Bible. But theologian and linguist William Tyndale was determined to provide his fellow countrymen with Scripture they could read. In The Daring Mission of William Tyndale, Dr. Steven J. Lawson traces this daring mission, which was ultimately used by God to ignite the English Reformation yet would cost Tyndale his life.
